Buckley Viewpoint: Giving 100 percent is a must

Viewpoint

Striving for perfection: Make it an everyday task

By Major Heidi Scheppers
460th Security Forces Squadron commander

Why do we need to give 100 percent every time we do our jobs? You know why, it is our responsibility to do our best everyday and strive for perfection. I pulled this information out of my “Daily Devotional.” Consider the implications in some of our daily lives if people only gave a 99.9 percent performance in these areas:

Two million documents would be lost by the Internal Revenue Service this year. What if that was your tax return?
Twelve babies would be given to the wrong parents each day. Some 291 pacemaker operations would be performed incorrectly. 20,000 incorrect prescriptions would be written. About 114,500 mismatched pairs of shoes would be shipped by shoe manufacturers.

I tell my troops everyday, whether they are sick, tired or distracted give me 100 percent. Our country cannot afford less than that from them everyday. If Defenders on the gate miss that .1 percent who isn’t authorized on the base with the intent to do damage, consider the implications. If a crew chief forgets his tool in the engine of a jet, just one time, consider the consequences. A civil engineer troop isn’t paying attention for a split second while digging a trench and hits a gas line, consider what mission they will impact or consider the damage that may ensue.

None of us will ever achieve perfection in every area of our lives. However, neither do any of us have an excuse for failing to try to do a 100 percent job. Remember this: giving it your best means going for the top every time.

New faces arrive at Buckley for summer season

Buckley hires students to be summertime employees throughout the wing

By Airman 1st Class Chris Smith
460th Public Affairs

The Summer Hire Program began at Buckley Air Force Base Monday bringing new applicants for summertime placement in the civil service.

The program, which will last until Aug. 27, has filled 45 open positions with high school and college students looking to get experience in office work or physical labor.

Ms. Colleen Bonar, 460th Civilian Personnel chief, said the main purpose of the Summer Hire Program is to get some younger employees into the civilian workforce considering a large percentage are military retirees.

“We must balance our workforce with a variety of age groups in order to retain skills long-term,” Ms. Bonar said. “Hiring permanent employees from retired military and our pool of younger candidates makes an ideal blend of workforce diversity. Most importantly, our students can show us a thing or two about technology in many circumstances.”

According to Ms. Bonar, the program is paying highly competitive wages in which the students can work with and learn about computers, automated equipment, reception etiquette, basic protocol, unique filing systems and physical labor.

“The traditional entry level job for students is dominated by the fast food industry. Hopefully, the experience of working at an Air Force base will be found more interesting by high school peers,” she said.

Ms. Bonar said this program is beneficial to the base. Units are offering employment opportunities to young adults associated with active duty members and civil servants here, which presents a good image of Buckley.

Although many of the summer hire employees will not be kept as personnel here following the closing of the program this year due to school requirements, Ms. Bonar said it is possible to keep some of them. Opportunity for full-time employment with college students would be more likely because of evening class availability.

People interested in the program must be high school or college students attending class at least half-time. For more information on the program, contact the civilian personnel office at 720-847-6191.

Tornado season reminds us to be prepared

By Ms. Kristen Speck
460th Public Affairs

Funnel clouds were spotted on Tuesday south and east of Denver and several became tornadoes. Damage was limited and no injuries were reported.

The twisters damaged homes and other buildings and uprooted trees near Castle Rock and parts of Elbert County. Although Buckley Air Force Base did not sustain any damage, safety became paramount as word of the tornado warning was circulated.

“Our personnel are well trained to handle these situations when they arise,” said Lt. Col Paul Bauer, 460th Mission Support Squadron commander. “Accountability for each individual becomes key.”

Base personnel were working at their desks and outside when the warning was announced. In the 460th Air Base Wing headquarters building, employees were immediately shuttled to the auditorium where they checked a sign-in sheet and accounted for all co-workers and customers in their section. After everyone was accounted for, Mr. Mark Schmidt from the wing safety office kept everyone informed of developments.

“Tornado watches and tornado warnings are nothing to take lightly,” said Mr. Schmidt. “The safety and well being of all of our people remain a top priority.”

Each building handled the situation a little differently based on their pre-plan for disaster preparedness. The fitness center encouraged all patrons to go to the hallway directly in front of the racquetball courts, while those at the on-base clinic gathered in two patient rooms in the middle of the building. The instructors at the child development center quickly moved children into the hallways to assure that they were away from all windows and doors leading to the outside.

While many are excited about the spring and summer months, events such as these remind us to be prepared and educated if we are caught in a similar situation in the future. The following information is distributed through the 460 CES Readiness Flight to assure that you and your family are ready for tornado season:

If you are at home:

☐Go to your basement - If you do not have a basement, go to an interior hallway or small interior room on the lowest floor

☐Avoid windows
☐Do not remain in a trailer or mobile home if a tornado is approaching - Seek or take shelter elsewhere

If you are at work:

☐Go to an interior hallway on the lowest floor, or a designated shelter
☐Avoid windows

If you are in a car or outside:

☐Seek cover in a nearby building, or lie flat in a ditch or ravine

Assemble a disaster supplies kit:

☐First aid kit and essential medications
☐Battery powered radio and flashlight
☐Canned food and opener
☐Three-day supply of bottled water
☐Conduct periodic tornado drills, so everyone remembers what to do when a tornado is approaching.

Team Buckley members get ready for annual base picnic

460th Services Division

The Buckley Air Force Base picnic is scheduled to begin Thursday at 11 a.m. in the parking lot behind Mod. 2.

Food, refreshments, K-9 demonstrations, bouncy castles and vehicle test drives are just some of the activities available for Team Buckley members at the picnic.

According to Ms. Jennifer James, services community support flight chief, this was very much a base-wide planned event, so it’s important for everyone to come and participate in the activities Thursday.

“This is the one time when the Buckley military community can get together and have a bit of fun, thanks in part to the wing leadership for designating this as an alternate work site,” said Ms. James.

The Colossal Cookie Challenge will be held in the Community Activity Center with the winner going on to compete against winners of other Air Force Space Command bases. There will also be a free casino, so come test your skill at Black Jack, Texas Hold’em and Craps.

Saturn will be offering test drives of some of their newest models. Since a new car is one of the prizes for Around The World In Ninety Days this year, this is a great time to take a spin in a car that could become your own! For those true car enthusiasts there will also be a car show with some of the most unique cars in the Front Range area. The base community is also getting involved with some military vehicles on site for everyone to checkout, along with two K-9 demonstrations from our Buckley Security Forces Team.

Mushball, sand volleyball and a three-on-three basketball tournament will be going strong for our sports enthusiasts and grown-up kids, while we take care of the little kids with a bouncy castle and games by the softball fields. Sumo wrestling suits will be available for folks willing and ready to give this very unique style of wrestling a try.

Personal Risk Management: key to summer safety

By Lt. Col. Stephen Smith
460th Communications Squadron commander

Once again the 101 Critical Days of Summer are upon us and with them come the challenges of balancing fun with the elements and risks surrounding us. Our goal is to keep safety in mind in everything we do and to ensure everyone at Buckley Air Force Base makes it through this summer without injury.

Whether you enjoy fishing, hiking, swimming or even skydiving there are steps you can take to minimize the risk to your safety and the safety of your family and friends. The process that you take to do this is called Personal Risk Management.

Risk management is the process of taking a systematic review of an occupation, event or practice and breaking it down to identify the potential hazards.

Once the hazards are known you must determine if the risks you are taking are acceptable or not. If the risks are not acceptable...DON'T DO IT. If they are acceptable, are there things you can do to minimize the risks?

Are there things you can control? Once these control measures are known you can now develop a plan. You may want to run your plan by someone else to ensure you've covered everything. Once your activity begins things can change or circumstances may arise that you did not plan on. Continually review your plan. Make sure your control measures keep you in the driver's seat. Don't let the changing environment cause you to become reactive.

I did a search of the web to find a few personal risk management items and found an outstanding guide on the Fort Hood Web site. "Personal Risk Management: Summer Guide Risk Assessment" has assessments already completed and covers areas like All Terrain Vehicles, Scuba Diving, Fishing, Soccer and Golf to name a few. Here is just one example of a risk assessment in the guide.

Lawn care and gardening

Step 1 — Identify the hazards: Let's look at the hazards associated with lawn and gardening:

- ☐Lawn mower (blade and chute)
- ☐Loose objects

Courtesy photo

Mowing your lawn is a task that many people might not relate to being possibly dangerous. When doing this or other dangerous tasks, people should take all precautions necessary to avoid getting hurt.

- ☐Fire ants
 - ☐Weed eater
 - ☐Lawn edger
 - ☐Hedge trimmer
 - ☐Insecticides/Fertilizers
- Step 2 — Assess the risk: Then assess the impact of each hazard in terms of potential loss and severity:
- ☐Foot and hand injuries from contact with mower blade. Disconnect the spark plug prior to reaching underneath the mower deck
 - ☐Injury from flying debris
 - ☐Eye injury from flying debris
 - ☐Injuries from weed eater cord and thrown objects
 - ☐Poisoning from insecticides or fertilizers, use less hazardous chemicals
 - ☐Reaction from fire ant bites/infection
- Step 3 — Analyze risk control measures: Once you have identified the hazards and assessed the associated risk, you should decide on some controls which can be employed to reduce or mitigate the hazards:
- ☐Wear safety toe shoes, long pants, goggles, and gloves
 - ☐Inspect all lawn and gardening equipment prior to use

- ☐Inspect lawn, remove all loose objects prior to mowing
 - ☐Let wet lawns dry before mowing
 - ☐Unclog chute with a stick not your hand.
- Note: Disconnect the spark plug first
- ☐Wear shoes/eliminate ant hills with insecticides
 - ☐Use insecticides and fertilizers as directed.
- Step 4 — Make control decisions: Accept the risk, avoid the risk, reduce the risk or spread the risk. Do not make dumb decisions.
- Step 5 — Risk control implementation: Once you select the appropriate controls, use them! A plan is only good if it's followed.
- Step 6 — Supervise and review: As always, the situation is subject to change quickly. Monitor the situation and adjust as necessary to keep things under control. Summer is a great time for lawn care and gardening. From now on, use risk management to make your summer fun, memorable, and safe. No one wants a summer day to turn into a tragedy!
- Safety and risk management is everyone's responsibility. Failure by anyone can and will cause someone to get injured or even worse, cause a fatality. Please take care this summer and be safe.

Game of the week: COANG spikes DFAS down a notch

By Mr. Jerrod Hallman
Buckley sports director

This weeks volleyball game of the week featured the third place COANG against the sixth place DFAS with COANG winning both games 25 to 12 and taking the match two games to none.

Game one started out with some intense volleys and lots of back and forth action, which resulted in a 10 to 10 tie going into the first timeout. COANG, started the game with only five players, got a much-needed boost when their sixth player arrived. After getting to full strength, COANG went on a 12-0 run, and pushed the lead to 22-10, a lead that would prove insurmountable for the accountants.

Statistically, COANG dominated the action in the first game with four kills and six aces.

In game two, COANG started out with a 6-0 lead that seemed to suck the life out of DFAS. After a brief rally, COANG went on another run, this time a 7-0 run that put the score at 13-2 and forced a timeout for DFAS. DFAS again made a run but ended up being outscored 12 to 10 after the timeout. Game 2 ended up statistically the same with COANG dominating again to the tune of five kills and six ace serves. With the victory COANG moves to 7-4 while DFAS fell to 0-10.

In other action on Tuesday, the ADF defeated 566 IOS in two games 25-12 and 25-20 and HQ ARPC needed all three games to defeat COANG II, 25-11, 24-26 and 15-7.
